Ex. C, Q/Ans

Q.1

Ans. The pale young gentleman was at his books when Pip looked in at the window. He had ink-stain on his hands and clothes.

Q.2

Ans: The attitude or behaviour of the pale young fellow towards Pip was arrogant and aggressive when they first met.

Q.3-

Ans. Pip was so astonished that he just followed the pale young gentleman to the fight-arena.

③

Q.4

Ans. When Pip let out the first blow, the pale young gentleman fell on the ground but he stood up and started to fight again. When Pip hit him the second time, he again fell on his back. Pip was so surprised to see all this because it was the pale young gentleman who had been the aggressor from the start and had displayed the confidence and earnestness of a professional boxer.

Q.5:-

Ans. ~~The~~ ~~pale~~ ~~young~~ ~~gentleman~~

The pale young gentleman won Pip's respect by sticking rigidly to the rules of the sport and by keeping his fighting spirit to the end. This tells us that the pale young gentleman was honest, just, law-abiding, straightforward and earnest person.

(4)

Q.6

Ans. The pale young gentleman gave up the fight when he got a bad fall with the back of his head against the wall.

Q.7

Ans. The pale young gentleman was a good sport for the following reasons;

- a. He conformed to the rules throughout the fight.
- b. He did not give up the fight even though he was badly bruised.
- c. He conceded his defeat in the fight gracefully.
